

Advance Directives

for Healthcare and Beyond

Thursday, April 18, 2024

10 - 11:30 a.m.

In person at ADRC, by phone, or online via computer, tablet, or smartphone*

Advance care planning, including power of attorney for health care, allows your preferences for medical care to be voiced even if you are unable to make decisions for yourself. When you put your wishes in writing, it helps put those you love at ease. Let us help you understand the common documents used and how to get started having conversations with your loved ones. Other topics to be covered include:

- Becoming familiar with vocabulary
- Reflecting on your values
- Choosing a healthcare agent
- Exploring goals for treatment
- Taking the first steps toward completing your advance directive

“Before the workshop I knew nothing. After the workshop, I’ve learned the necessity of it...and what a joy and gift to give this to my family.”

**In order to participate online, you will need a computer/tablet/smartphone, an email address, and internet access.*

Space is limited. Registration required.
Call ADRC (920) 448-4300 to register.
