We plan for so many things in our lives, but have you thought about planning for end-of-life? Join us to learn more about what support you would want during a life changing illness, after a terminal diagnosis, when death is imminent, or even after a death. When individuals plan for death, they have autonomy over their decisions and can clearly define their end-of-life wishes with family and loved ones. You will learn:

- What a Death Doula is and how they provide companionship, comfort, and guidance
- The latest trends in death and dying
- What a Swedish Death Cleansing is
- What a Death Café is
